

PCRS Conference September 21–23, 2023

Have you booked your place at this year's conference yet?

Early bird registration is now open for you to secure your place and join us in Telford for the UK's leading respiratory conference for clinicians working in primary, community, and integrated care.

Keep up to date with our scientific programme

Our scientific programme is designed afresh each year by a multidisciplinary team of general practice, community, and integrated care respiratory experts. Our 2023 programme is under construction, but you can be sure it will include the usual mix of high-quality clinical and professional development symposia, the latest updates in respiratory medicine as they apply to primary care, and a wealth of practice-focused research from colleagues across the UK. Primary care, perhaps more than any other area of healthcare, is a multidisciplinary specialty. Our conference is unique in that we design our programme to meet the professional development needs of everyone working in respiratory healthcare, regardless of their professional qualifications.

---

“Excellent conference, very refreshing to have the opportunity to learn what’s up and coming and how to get over obstacles in providing high quality care.”

Respiratory Nurse Specialist

---

Share your research and experience

There's still time to submit an abstract to our Scientific Research, Best Practice, and Service Development categories. Submissions are accepted until 30th June 2023, and awards are made for the best abstract in each category.

---

“Coming from Northern Ireland I have had very little experience of the PCRS conference per se – but I am totally blown away with the calibre and quality of this conference and am committed to make it an annual event in my diary.”

Practice nurse

---

Workshops and skills development

Practical skills-based sessions and workshops are an integral part of the PCRS Conference programme and are included in your registration fee. Spaces are often limited, and early booking is recommended, although these sessions are so popular that they are run several times throughout the conference. Register early to make sure you are the first to hear when this year's programme is announced.

---

“The PCRS conference is the place to upskill yourself and have a load of fun.”

Community Pharmacist

---

Visit our Exhibition Hall

An important part of any professional conference is the Exhibition Hall. Here you will find the PCRS stand, where you can chat with the team as well as representatives of other professional organisations. You can also chat with representatives of our conference sponsors including Pharmaceutical and Medical Device companies. Their clinical specialists are always ready to share new evidence and knowledge and help you translate these insights into clinical practice. There are always opportunities to get hands-on and try new inhalers and other devices and equipment.

“I loved the whole feel of the conference. Most importantly I was able to take a lot away with me to help inform my practice.”

Practice Nurse

“I was a little nervous coming as I only knew one person, but went away with many contacts.”

Pharmacist

Catch up with colleagues and grow your professional network

The PCRS conference is the ideal place to meet up with colleagues, share experiences, and build your professional network across all the professions working to provide primary care services in the UK.

Attend our Gala Dinner and into-the-night disco

The Gala Dinner is our way of thanking you for all the hard work you put in over the year caring for patients and each other. While a small fee is charged for the dinner itself, the disco afterwards is open to everyone for no additional charge. Spend Friday night getting your groove on with colleagues; we guarantee you will never see them in quite the same way again!

“As always, a very friendly and inclusive conference. Lots of fantastic chats/networking opportunities as well.”

Respiratory Specialist Doctor

PCRS is committed to ensuring access to our conference for primary care colleagues. If you want to attend the conference but are struggling to afford it, visit our REGISTRATION PAGE for potential sources of funding and support.